

Mr. DAVY'S EXHIBITION: "THE EVERGREEN." It was completed it was thought advisable to give these persons to keep them from starving, and when work was completed it was thought advisable to give these persons free passes to enable them to reach the interior of the colony in a state of emphysema. The Government were bound in a most liberal way, and he thought the Government were right in granting them. (Hear, hear.) He believed that kind of thing went on, and would always go on. He thought the Government were right in exercising their power to enable these persons to leave the colony. Such a course was to be recommended, and he did not think the House was prepared to declare that all free passes should be abolished, because the Minister would be deprived of all power over these cases. He was sure the House did not wish to give the Government for these concessions to the poor classes of the community, in any great extent, such as that of a railway line, and the matter of great public importance occurring in the interior, he would not stand in the way of the Government for issuing free passes, yet he had, at the same time admitted that he had himself given hundreds of free passes. No doubt, many of these cases had been referred to him. Such a course was to be recommended, and he did not think the House was prepared to declare that all free passes should be abolished, because the Minister would be deprived of all power over these cases. He was sure the House did not wish to give the Government for these concessions to the poor classes of the community, in any great extent, such as that of a railway line, and the matter of great public importance occurring in the interior, he would not stand in the way of the Government for issuing free passes. Supposing the Minister were impeded in this case by the reporter giving this information, and in which case he would have to pay the expenses of the reporter out of his own pocket, but if they thought it necessary to make an application for a free pass, he saw no objection in granting it on occasions of that kind. But it was quite a different matter to give a free pass to a person who had no right to do so. (Laughter.)

LAW.

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT COURT.

Before Mr. District Court Judge DOWLING.

MURKIN V. STATHAM.

The parties in this case were both shareholders of this city, and the action arose in respect of a transaction with the Peak Downe Paper Milling Company. It appeared that the defendant had entered into a written agreement with the latter to the effect that the latter should plaintiff pay the sum of £200 for the dividends to be received in July, 1873, on 1000 shares in the company named above. It was also agreed that the defendant did not possess any shares in the company, but were dismissed, and other two were not prosecuted. Michael O'Connell and Henry Simms were each fined £50 for obstructing a public thoroughfare by placing a carriage thereon, and neglecting to remove it when required to do so.

LICENSING BUSINESS.—The license of the Empire Hotel, George-street, was transferred from the official assignee of Trean's estate to Thomas Kennedy, Currie, for defendant.

MURKIN AND ANOTHER V. WATERHOUSE.

Action for goods sold and delivered. Verdict for plaintiff. ARTHUR AND ANOTHER V. MOORE.

The action for slater, brought by Mr. and Mrs. Adams against the defendant Moore. A preliminary objection being taken to the plaintiff on the ground that the two plaintiffs were improper. It was held that the plaintiff was not entitled to sue in his own name, but at the meeting of the company on July 1st, no dividend was declared. Under the circumstances, the plaintiff refused to complete the agreement, and plaintiff agreed to recover the sum of £200. A non-suit was granted, and the defendant was ordered to pay the amount specified for the ground that the fact of no dividend whatever being declared was not in the contemplation of either party with the agreement.

Mr. Pitcher, instructed by Mr. F. Williams, plaintiff; Mr. Wani, instructed by Mr. F. Williams, defendant.

WATER POLICE COURT.

Before the Water Police Magistrate, with Messrs. Hunt, S. Gold, and Tait.

Several drunkards were fined.

John O'Brien, for riotous conduct, was fined 20s, in default of seven days' imprisonment.

John O'Brien, for assaulting the apprehending constable, and was ordered to pay an additional 20s., with a like alternative.

John Kelly and John Telfar were fined 20s. each, in default seven days' imprisonment, for riotous conduct.

Amy McEwan, charged with assaulting an aged woman relating to Mr. Kelly, was struck out, leaving Mr. Adens.

The case for plaintiff was that one evening in September last defendant went to the house of plaintiff in Little Cleveland-street, and knocked at the door with a stick.

Plaintiff, in reply, with a stick, struck the door, whereupon defendant struck him, and plaintiff obtained his money. It appeared that there was a small amount which plaintiff admitted to be due by him to defendant, but which, it appeared, he had, through his clerk, tendered to plaintiff. Some few remarks were exchanged, after which plaintiff consented to the plaintiff's suggestion, and the words "thief," "robber," "vagabond," were applied to both plaintiff and his wife. These words were heard by certain of the neighbours, and were heard by plaintiff, who was accused, for a distance of fifty yards. For the sake of plaintiff, Mr. Pitcher, defendant.

Plaintiff, for defendant.

WEATON V. BOLMAN.

Action on account of debt. Plaintiff claimed £12 13s. 1d., defendant paid a set-off amounting to £11 8s. Verdict for plaintiff. 22 10s. 1d. Mr. Oliver for plaintiff; Mr. Pitcher for defendant.
